

Peter Yoon

My name is Peter Yoon and I grew up in the town of Teluk Anson, Malaysia. I first came to Melbourne to study Civil Engineering in 1983 and a few years later completed an MBA at RMIT.

It was a trip to Airlie Beach decades ago when I found myself helping the line honours boat "Ragamuffin" for a brief moment and that experience drew me into sailing!

I first started sailing at RMYS in 2010 with "Xit Strategy" and had a great experience sailing with Peter and Mark.

A few months later, I joined "Weekend Option" and it was Michael Culhane who helped me to become a member of RMYS.

Not completely satisfied with sailing, I climbed up to the Tower one day with Ian Guyett to help him run a pursuit race. Little did I know, months later he trained me up for mark laying on Albatross - perhaps to get me to become a volunteer? That's how it all started for me and I have always enjoyed working together when we go out to lay marks or run a race.

My highlight was volunteering in the 2015 AWKR!
